DEATH OF DR. HAWKES. Prominent Physician the Victim of Acute Indigestion.

Dr. William H. Hawkes, surgeon and physician, died suddenly last evening at 8 o'clock at his residence, 1317 Columbia road, of acute indigestion, in less than two hours after he was stricken. He had been in excellent health, it is said, and felt perfectly well yesterday afternoon. It was supposed that the attack was the result of something eaten at his dinner.

He had been a member of the staff of the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, and formerly was connected with Gar field Hospital. He was a professor at the Georgetown Medical School for a time. Dr. Hawkes was born in Connecticut Oc-tober 25, 1845. In 1847 he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He became an assistant surgeon in the army, and was detailed to Washington for a time. He was private tutor to the Garfield boys while their father was in the White House. In 1882 he joined the medical profession of the District of Columbia. He was also a member of the American Medical Association He was married, but left no children. The funeral will be held at his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock

The services, which will be private, will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Kelly of the First Presbyterian Church. The body will be taken to Boston for interment.

GOLDENBERG'S SPRING OPENING. New Stocks of Spring Merchandise Ready for Shoppers.

In striking contrast to the bleak, raw March weather without is the scene within the establishment of Goldenberg's, the 7th street merchants. It is the occasion of their spring opening, and the entire store has taken on the tints and vernal beauty of spring. Brought out by the unusually strong attractions and a desire to view the new spring styles, the store was comfortably filled all day, despite the bad weather conditions prevailing.

The most important feature of the store's display is the spring opening, an event which cannot fail to strike a responsive chord in every feminine heart.* It is every woman's desire to enjoy a first view of the new spring fashions in headwear, and all who journey to Goldenberg's this week will be highly gratified at the comprehensive showing of beautiful trimmed and untrimmed hats which form the collection gathered for the opening. Large hats turn gathered for the opening. Large hats, tur-bans and toques are the shapes most favored for spring and summer wear, and these are shown in immense variety. Hardly any two hats in the assemblage are alike and this affords every woman an opportunity to choose the hat that most be-comes her. Flowers of every sort that look as if just picked from nature's own garden braids of many sorts, sprays and soft meterials form the trimmings, and these are arranged in effects and combinations that produce marvelously beautiful creations certain to win unstinted approval from all

Goldenberg's millinery has won an enviable reputation and the business has grown to remarkably large proportions within a few years. The aim has been to produce hats of becoming style and exclusiveness at moderate prices, ranging from five to fifteen dollars, and this season's opening display demonstrates the ability of the Goldenberg corps of artist milliners to accomplish this result.

Of equal importance to the millinery opening is the spring display of silks and dress goods, which is claimed to be the largest and most complete the firm has ever gathered. These important lines occupy prominent space on the first floor, where ample light and wide aisles make selection simple and satisfactory.

The new stocks of mattings, floor coverings and upholstery goods are found on the fourth floor in complete variety. New lines have been added this season including iron and brass beds, fancy furniture, picture frames and other home belongings, as well as a pure food department, containing gro-has returned to his desk in the District vana on leave, and not on official business. While in Havana Mr. Hunt states that he inspected the system of streets there, and among other things learned that the authorities of Havana have decided to postpone for a time the construction of a sewer system, and will take up the matter of pavements, sidewalks, etc., instead. The authorities, he says, believe that the installation of the sewer service at this time is not so important as other matters, for the sanitary condition of the city is good, and the streets and alleys are quite clean.

Superintendent White's Comment on Commitments to Asylum:

the necessary information relative to the pathological, family and personal history of the patients committed. Dr. White states that in addition to containing as complete a history as possible of the patient, the certificate should mention sufficient evidence to warrant the diagnosis of insanity, or at least the evidence upon which the physicians based their diagnosis of the case. This evidence should also be included in the certificate if it is necessary that a patient should be admitted immediately to the hospital pending judicial inquiry into his mental

The board of police surgeons, to whom the matter was referred by the Commis-sioners, report that owing to the fact that the family history of the persons held by the police department suspected of insanity is seldom obtainable it is possible only in rare instances to furnish the information desired by Dr. White. They state, however, that the evidence upon which a detention for insanity is recommended is in-variably supplied by the police surgeons.
